Almost England.
You ought to Get This.
No Prohibition.

By Arthur Brisbane

VICTORIA, B. C., Aug. 4.
Seattle is about 3000 miles from New York; 4250 miles, nautical, from Tokyo, and less than four hours from real British territory, via Canadian Pacific boats, to this capital of British Columbia.

This place is as British as Basingstoke, and as beautiful, in scenery, luxuriant growth of flowers and peaceful quiet, as any place on earth.

With time enough to see only one Canadian city, Vancouver was selected, but American friends remonstrated. "Vancouver! That is simply a Junior Detroit, another bustling American city. Go to Victoria, and you will see how Britishers live and do business."

There are not doing business today, it is Sunday. Here men on $4000 a year look prosperous and contented, instead of looking drab and worried on $100,000 a year, as we do in "the States."

They have time to "live, their faces are pink, no deep lines running from the eyes towards the chin, such as you see on United States faces, reminding you of Wall Street, running from Trinity down to the East river docks.

In good times and bad, American investors pay high prices for stock in the Canadian Pacific Railroad. They are wise.

The Canadian Pacific knows how to run railroads, steamboats and hotels. It can't help succeeding. And for the "ferre" running here from Seattle, it builds boats that cost $1,000,000 each. That shows intelligence.

Victoria, in proportion to population, bought more bonds than any other city in the British Empire. A. C. Nicholas, editor of the able Victoria Times, and George I. Warren, of Victoria's Chamber of Commerce tell you this proudly. This place is prosperous.

Many from the Far East, from China, India and also from England come here to live and bring their money with them. They get a great deal for it.

At the side of the water, looking over Puget Sound, you can buy a lot of 120, with a well-built eight-room house for $10,000.

This column exists to tell the world of real estate wonders and opportunities inside the United States. But it is only fair to tell that some intelligent Americans are laying foundations for big fortunes in land here.

When they build houses, arriving from Yachuk, they are inclined to straighten out the old English lanes, that wind, something ought to be done about that.

Very American, soon or late, ought to come here, then travel along the great sound to Vancouver, if only to know this magnificent body of water. It is jointly with Canada, and young people in the Northwest know it and use it.

Here now are four young American girls, two sisters, married, as follows:
Miss Irma Fraser, Mrs. A. C. Cochran, Mrs. Alice Griswold, and Mrs. Johnson. All from Seattle. Each is a guest in these hotted days.

They have a power boat 22 feet long, and will spend three weeks' vacation in it, cruising hundreds of miles along the shores of Puget Sound. They're serious from, to make the cook them, steep in the boat, live in their bathing suits.

Do they carry a gun or pistol? "Certainly not. There are not any men along here, and those here are civilized. This is the West."

The Sound is as smooth as the water in a bathtub. Bubbles that suggest a pleasing pattern for a lady's dress material. Standing at the bow of the Canadian Pacific boat, Princess Kathleen, "no wonder why you have spent your life away from Puget Sound."

The air that blows down from the cold northern waters makes you feel 10 years, or two feet, older. You should see this country. San Juan Island, given to this nation by old William, grandfather of the Kaiser, in a boundary arbitration 18 years ago, is a fine little kingdom to itself. South, the Pacific coast stretches to the American border more than 1000 miles.

And to the north lies the great empire of Alaska, saved up for future generations. This is the real United States. Come and see it.

TO START AT MIDNIGHT, ECKENER DECIDES

Commander Supervises the Workmen Turning Up Air Liner to Circle Globe

Lakehurst, N. J., Aug. 3 (INS).—The round-the-world flight of the Graf Zeppelin will begin Wednesday at midnight. Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the giant airship, so decided today, after a long inspection of his ship.

Refreshed by a good night's sleep after many strenuous hours at the helm of the air liner, Dr. Eckener arrived early today at the huge hangar and supervised the myriads of workmen preparing the Graf for the return to Friedrichshafen on the first leg of the round the world flight.

It is his intention to start, within a few days after arrival at Friedrichshafen, eastward over Europe and Asia for Tokyo, thence to Honolulu, San Diego and back again to Lakehurst, the globe circling voyage to be made in 21 days.

The world trip, which the ship will fly back to its home port across the Atlantic, bringing its 100 passengers and 100 tons of mail, will be made in 21 days.

SWANSON IN VANGUARD OF ATTACK

Democratic Leader Joins the G. O. P. Opponents of Halting Cruiser Building

Washington, Aug. 3 (AP).—Evidence continues to pile up that the approaching end of the recess of the Senate will mark the beginning of a vigorous attack on President Hoover's action suspending construction of three ships of the Cruiser program. These ships were to have been laid down this fall.

The President's decision, announced after similar action had been taken by Prime Minister MacDonald, has again been brought under severe Senatorial criticism in a statement by Senator Swanson of Virginia, ranking Democrat of the Naval Affairs Committee.

ILLEGAL, SAYS SWANSON
The Virginia senator's statement, showing that he shares the opposition to the President's course, expressed in more or less similar language by Chairman Hale of the Senate and Chairman Britten of the House naval committee, has also served to emphasize apprehension in administration circles over the effect of a public example as a date on his authority to take such action might have on the current naval reduction program.

Swanson bluntly described the suspension as "unlawful" and suggested that the President should reconsider this matter and state that he will proceed to construct these three cruisers as directed unless Congress should restrict the direction given him.

Meanwhile, some administration officials have been laying out certain sections of the President's announcement of suspension which have caused him to be minimized in the discussion.

It is the desire of the United States to show equal good will in the spirit of the President's executive action, after asserting that Prime Minister MacDonald had indicated "the good will and positive intention of the British Government" by suspension of construction of certain portions of this naval program.

EVIDENCE OF GOOD WILL.
That is regarded in some administration quarters as the basic point in the situation. With the British Government voluntarily suspending part of its construction work as an evidence of its intention in approaching the disarmament question, they hold that the United States should follow a similar action by the United States was to be and among other quiet features, possesses hinged teeth.

A quite different view was taken by Sen. Swanson, who asserted that the suspension would not advance a naval agreement between the two nations. He said that the United States should strengthen British belief "that all Great Britain has to do to strengthen matters, negotiate to keep the peace status which gives similar action an overwhelming superiority over ours."

LABOR CHIEF FLAYS MAYOR

Lowell, Aug. 3 (AP).—An attack upon Mayor Thomas H. Braden, in which he was characterized as "a friend of labor," by Parker F. Murphy, president of Lowell Trades and Labor Council, featured the opening session of the 44th annual convention of the Massachusetts Branch A. F. of L. here today.

It is stated that Mayor Braden is not here, said Mrs. Murphy. "He is afraid to attend. He is too cowardly to defend the city of his administration. This is the first time our annual convention has been attended by the mayor of the city in which it is held or his representative."

For 25 years the mayor and City Council of Lowell have appropriated from $100 to $1200 each year.

TELS OF DEEE ON AIRSHIP

Noted Explorer Thrilled by Incidents on Board Giant Airship

EXCLUSIVE

By MR. HERBERT WILKINS

Passenger explorer who rounded the Atlantic on the Graf Zeppelin to visit the state of the second transatlantic flight.

(Written on board Graf Zeppelin in its Friedrichshafen-Lakehurst flight.)

Lakehurst, N. J., Aug. 5.—The former attempt to reach America on board the Zeppelin and on which engine trouble led to its being some thrilling adventure after the a spy cockpit, whetting our appetites for more.

On that trip the airship so definitely proved its ability to cross the Atlantic and the officers so clearly demonstrated their ability that it was no wonder that the place where the passengers hung out to see the ship start for New York, was a scene of such a mad rush that the second did not succeed. The first was a success.

Hubert Wilkins.

Passengers traveled Friedrichshafen by airplane, rail and steamer. (The little town of the Souden and ferries play regularly to Berlin.) This trip had been made, all things being equal, about the same time as the scheduled time for the sailing.

When came the day of departure, passengers, their friends, airplane officers and crew, local people and others all flocked to the beautiful Kurpark. Here, in the shade of the trees, the airship was to be seen. The excitement was so great that the uncertainty of passengers' arrival.

There was also the chance that others who were waiting might not see the ship. It was a dramatic situation. A beautiful girl from Paris arrived, and she was waiting for the ship to come. She was waiting for the ship to come. She was waiting for the ship to come.

Would she go if she could? She wanted to, but a film contract forbade it. An American film star, Anna May Wong, was on the steamer Bremen and seeking further adventures. I believe she even carried her tooth brush compact, waiting for a chance to use it on board.

The start was announced for 3:30 a. m. That meant an sleep the world had to put in to the hotel noise went early to the harbor. There was no excitement, everything was in perfect order.

Three or four watchmen guarded the doors. Young Ecker was in charge. Pale blue lights along the hangar roof shed a ghostly radiance over the silver airship. The appearance of some unrecognizable monster suspended in its cave. The chert was hung from the hangar roof as the weight of the ship made up for the weight of the air. The air was in the hands of the air. The air was in the hands of the air.

Getting Ready for the Start

There was yet an hour before the start. We sampled the air, held fluttering handkerchiefs that stretched diametrically across the hangar. The wind was not strong and it was not a tickle. It was a tickle. It was a tickle. It was a tickle.

Two solid lines formed, one on each side of the balloon car. Groups of 30 men said control ropes along spread fanwise from various points along the airship. The airship was in the hands of the air. The air was in the hands of the air.

Each tickle was checked as we stepped on board. The total toll four out of the original number. The Piers. Mrs. Piers was a passenger on the other flight. She was stranded somewhere in Russia. An ambassador from Spain was stranded somewhere in Russia. An ambassador from Spain was stranded somewhere in Russia.

One Wool Suit for Hub in Zeppelin's Cargo

Lakehurst, N. J., Aug. 5 (UPI)—A freight brought over on the Graf Zeppelin and addressed to a woman of color was today speeding toward its destination. Starting with the Zeppelin's cargo list, a gorilla, and Louis, a chimpanzee, customs officials went through the form of checking the air visitor's baggage in accordance with the rules that were on the usual steamship list.

It was a varied and strange cargo that the Graf brought across, some of the items being a wool suit for Hub, a gorilla, and Louis, a chimpanzee.

7 Auburn Convicts Escape in One Week

Prison officials were today making a determined search for two convicts who escaped from the Auburn prison last week.

They are Francis Edward Green, 22, and John William Winfield, 22, of Richmond.

Yesterday's escape brings to a total the number of men who have broken away from Auburn prison in the last week.

Several times the plans swung around on their escape, but they turned aside and made their way to the north Atlantic.

We were well away on a great adventure. Yes, and more than that, we were to demonstrate the ability of the airship crew and engines and mark one more record of success along the line of air travel.

As we crossed the Swiss hills to the Rhone valley we experienced a few bumps but the airship was in perfect control.

FORMER BALL PLAYER HELD IN DEATH

Harrisburg, Penn., Aug. 3.—Samuel "Red" Crane, formerly major league baseball player, is being held in connection with the fatal shooting of Jack Oren, 24, and the serious wounding of Della Lynder, 40.

All are residents of Harrisburg. Oren died in Harrisburg Hospital. Miss Lynder was reported to be in a critical condition.

Crane, who formerly played with the Cincinnati Nationals and the Washington Americans, arrived after the shooting. The police advanced jealousy as the motive for the shooting.

They allege that the former baseball player followed Oren and Miss Lynder into the hotel on Washington st., and thence into a side room of the establishment. The shooting followed.

Police indicated tonight that a charge of murder would be placed against Crane. They said he was too much under the influence of intoxicating liquor to be questioned and that questioning will be conducted by Dist. Atty. Fox of Dauphin County.

Oren was shot through the abdomen and similar wounds were suffered by the woman. Operations on both were performed at the hospital, but Oren died. Reports from the hospital tonight said Miss Lynder was not expected to live. She was shot twice in the abdomen, one bullet penetrating her left side and emerging from her right.

Crane, a product of the sandlots, is 34 years old and started his baseball career with the New Cumberland team in 1912. At various times he played with the Athletics, the Washington Americans and Cincinnati.

He was with the Reds in 1919 when they won the world's championship in the series with the White Sox.

Mt. Etha Spouting Flames and Fumes

Catania, Sicily, Aug. 3.—Majestic Mount Etha, peak of smoke and fire, continued to rumble and blaze, emitting strong sulphuric fumes and acids and indicating that lava from its smoldering crater. The present eruption, which already has taken the lives of two men attempting to observe the activity, has filled a large area with fumes which are unbearable and is frequently throwing ashes so high in the air that they fall on the little mountain town of Nicotusa.

Novice Crew Crosses Sea Unknowingly

Maria, Azores, Aug. 3.—The 46-foot Ketch Carlsberg has dropped anchor in the harbor here with a crew of four amateur sailors, who were all Cornell University men, after a remarkable crossing of the Atlantic in 12 days.

The skipper, Carl I. Wexant of Douglas, Long Island, Cornell football manager last year, declared his three companions had not suspected that they were crossing the Atlantic until more than half of the distance had been covered.

"We left New York secretly last June and sailed up the St. Lawrence. We reached Nova Scotia and left there on July 22. My crew of D. N. Scholtes, J. M. Rummel and H. O. Devereux did not suspect my intention of crossing in the Azores, seven days out.

"Twelve days of good weather made a splendid journey for us. We encountered a whale on entering the Gulf stream. We have two radio receiving sets. We intend to proceed by the way of San Miguel and Gibraltar to the Mediterranean returning by way of the Canary islands and Cape Verde."

Raccoon Coats

We could have boughtcoon coats to retail at anywhere from $200 to $250 . . . but they wouldn't have been the dependable quality coats for which Hovey's is famous.

Why for the sake of a few extra dollars sacrifice the fine quality and youthful chic that you want in your fur coat?

You want a sound investment, not a coat that will be "all shot" after a season's wear, but a coat that is made on honor from heavily tanned skins . . . and that is the only type of raccoon coat that Hovey's will sell you.

Before you choose your raccoon coat, do yourself a favor by carefully comparing Hovey's raccoon coats with other offerings.

CREW SAVED AS CRAFT HITS ROCKS

New Bedford, Aug. 3.—The crew of seven men on the fishing schooner John and Mary of this port had a hard time getting ashore when the craft struck on the southeast part of No Man's Land.

The crew landed from the craft 30 hours after the struck among the rocks in a blinding rain. She will be a total loss.

While the crew all got ashore safely, the landing was attended with great danger, and in running lines from the grounded craft to the shore to haul the dory and its four men, two members of the crew, Harry G. McDonald and Harry Kruger, had to jump into the water almost up to their necks to take the line ashore to fasten to the rocks.

When the craft struck, a dory in being launched, was carried away by a huge breaker and immediately another dory was put overboard. This dory was filled with water before two members of the crew could get on board to row in with the line.

It had to be hoisted on deck again to be bailed and then the attempt was successful.

Getting back to the craft, Kruger and McDonald made second attempt to get the line to the shore, and this time the attempt was successful, with both men up to their necks in the surf working to fasten the end around some rocks.

After the line was fast and the dory was hauled back to the John and Mary, and in four trips, the crew were taken off, saving only what they stood in, being drenched to the skin by the surf and rain.

Loaded with 30,000 pounds of flat caught out on Georges, the John and Mary was making for New York and a market. She had half haddock and half flounders.

The crew included Capt. William Sparrow, Engineer Charles Frank, Mr. Olsen and Joseph Naray.

It takes the third time McDonald had been wrecked in a fishing craft.

DEMOCRATS TO APPROVE FARM TARIFF RATES

Washington, Aug. 5.—The sweep of tariff increases granted agricultural products by Senate Republicans will be approved by the Senate with little opposition, Senator J. M. Simmons (D.) of North Carolina, the Democratic financial leader, announced today.

The new sliding scale of sugar rates, proposed by Senator Reed Smoot (R.) of Utah, however, will be subjected to considerable scrutiny by the Democrats to determine whether it includes a "joker." Simmons indicated Democratic opposition because it will increase tariff rates when sugar prices decline and because of its price-fixing nature. He likewise declared war on a considerable number of increases on industrial products.

The higher farm product rates—the highest in history—will be accepted as a rule, Simmons said, by Senate Democrats. He explained that both major parties had pledged themselves to place agriculture on an economic parity with industry. "We must raise agricultural rates to give the farmer parity," he said, "and to maintain that parity we must reduce a large number of excessive rates placed on manufactured articles."

Some of the more important farm product rates raised by the House and approved by Senate Republicans, which probably will be enacted into law with Democratic aid, are: Wheat, 42 cents a bushel; corn, 25 cents a bushel; oats, 18 cents a bushel; cattle, 2 and 3/4 cents a pound; fresh beef and veal, 6 cents a pound; sheep, 33 a head; lamb, 7 cents a pound; swine, 2 cents a pound; pork, 2 1/2 cents a pound; bacon and ham, 3 1/2 cents a pound; lard, 3 cents a pound; milk, 5 or 6 1/2 cents a gallon.

WILSON GOES TO HAGUE PARLEY

Paris, Aug. 5 (AP).—Edwin C. Wilson, secretary of the American embassy here, will leave late today for The Hague to act as unofficial American observer at the forthcoming conference on application of the Young plan.

Diplomatic circles wondered what role he would assume when he arrived at The Hague. He was considered particularly fitted for the task at hand since he has followed the reparations problem closely almost from its inception. The conference at The Hague is the Young reparations agreement on June 7 in Paris made necessary. The Paris conference evolved a plan for liquidation of Germany's bill for the world war, but left for a future conference—that which here known—its application.

Crab Meat As Terrapin

CRAB MEAT in terrapin style really comes under the head of our "company recipes," yet really with full fashions becoming shuffling from the shop window. It is not a bad idea to keep the Man of the House in extra good humor these days. And this is the short cut is through the built line.

Anyway, whether you are going to use it for Sunday night supper for the family or for your Sunday-morning company luncheon, I know you're going to enjoy it.

CRAB MEAT A LA TERRAPIN. Cook one-half of a small onion finely in 2 to 3 cups of butter. Add 1 cup of heavy cream, beaten with the yolks of two eggs and salt and cayenne to taste. Cook one minute more and serve at once on hot points or in party shells.

I don't need to remind you of the many other tempting luncheon and dinner dishes that it is so easy to make from this Queen of Sea Foods.

To me it is fascinating to think of how Japanese crab meat is used by a group of sturdy fishermen, picking their way among rocks in the shadow of the Point Electric, leaving the danger of the frigid North Pacific ocean, where the world's finest crab meat comes from.

As soon as the crabs are caught the meat is carefully selected and packed by the most scientific methods, some right around the boats and some in the canneries abroad. First, it is wrapped in fresh parchment, then sealed in airtight containers.

Crab meat is delicious as an appetizer, in the beginning of a meal, in soups or as the main course. And we all know how delicious it is in salads, especially when combined with tomatoes.

With a few cans of Japanese crab meat in the house you are always prepared to serve light refreshments in the afternoon or a delightful meal to the unexpected guest. Crab sandwiches have their place in the school picnic or work lunch box, too.

Perhaps you'd like to send you a beautiful new recipe book, illustrated in color, containing tried and true crab meat dishes of unusual appeal? Just say the word, and it will fly to you air-mail.

WHILE the dry weather is making blueberries scarce and rather high, the same drought is bringing raspberries in market in good condition. California, Bartlett pears have appeared upon the scene and also some Malaga grapes—at 25c to 35c a pound. Bananas are a little higher. Apples are coming in from the north to four pounds for 25c.

Green and wax beans are plentiful and shell beans are more common. Summer squash is low at 10c to 15c a pound and yellow corn is about 50c a dozen. There are plenty of cucumbers, tomatoes and onions at reasonable prices.

Lamb is the least expensive meat to buy, and low fish prices continue. Fresh killed poultry is a bit higher than last week, but still a good value at 50c to 55c a pound for fresh killed broilers and 45c to 50c for fresh killed roosters.

Tasty Crab Recipe

CRAB MEAT A LA NEWBURG

A large can Japanese crab meat
1/2 cup butter
1/2 cup cream
1/2 cup lemon juice
1/2 cup Worcestershire Sauce
1/2 cup thin cream
2 egg yolks
Toasted bread.

Melt the butter, add the Japanese crab meat from which bones have been removed and stir and cook three minutes, keeping pieces as large as possible. Sprinkle with the salt, cayenne, nutmeg, lemon juice and Worcestershire sauce. Add the cream and the egg yolks. Place over hot water and stir gently until thickened. Serve at once on half slices of toasted bread.

BAR LE DUC CURRIES OR GOOSEBERRIES

Select large perfect currants or gooseberries and with tiny scissors carefully cut the skin on one side, making a slit about 1/4 inch. Through this, with a sharp needle, remove the seeds, being careful to preserve the shape of the fruit. Weigh the fruit, and heat an equal amount of strained honey. Add the fruit. Let simmer for 3 or 4 minutes. Remove fruit with a skimmer to tiny hot jars. Keep hot. Reduce the syrup, simmering gently in the desired consistency. Pour over the fruit and seal.

Message to the Better Business Girl

THERE is a growing belief on the part of employers that the unwise reducing diets resorted to by large numbers of feminine workers are responsible not only for frequent absence due to illness, but for lessened and poorer quality work while in the office. As the food supplies within the body approach the point of exhaustion, work power begins to fall. Fatigue sets in, starting up muscular tremblings and lowering the speed and controllable power of the bodily members.

Like the race horse, the human machine must go through a warming-up process each day. The working capacity appears to increase until it reaches its maximum at about 2:30 in the afternoon. From that time on, except for a spurt at the end, the curve seemed to fall with a fair degree of steadiness until the office closes in the evening.

It is well known, however, that in the average office the hours between 2:30 and 5 are the period of greatest rush and strain. It has been proved, however, that working powers may be sustained at this early afternoon peak by the eating of suitable quantities of foods which are quick restorers of depleted energy. Foods having a high sugar content should be selected because sugar is not only a

Frankforts in New Dish

As you know, I have sincere appreciation of a high quality frankfort, made of the finest materials under the most sanitary conditions. I know that such a frankfort is wholesome, economical and delicious and deserves a regular place on our menus. As a change from the more familiar frankforts with potato salad or the Saturday night beans I think you will enjoy this casserole of frankforts.

CASSEROLE OF FRANKFORTS

lightly together with one cup of cooked green peas, one cup of cooked string beans and seasoning to taste. Moisten with about a cup and a half of milk, dot with butter and bake one-half hour in a well greased casserole or au gratin dish.

Sugar belongs in the diet of Children

Scientists tell us that sugar belongs in the diet of children—that prejudices against sugar for children have no place in planning the modern diet.

For their body weight, children undergo more physical exertion in their play than most adults undergo doing hard work. A girl of twelve may often need as much food as her mother. A schoolboy of fifteen sometimes actually needs more food than his father.

Children should have four generous meals a day—with milk and with fruits and vegetables, some of them raw, cereals, and a moderate amount of meat or eggs. Fruits and vegetables are good for them, and they will like them if sweetened with a little sugar.

A liberal amount of sugar is an advantage in connection with the diversified diet of children. Sugar makes cereals, fruits and vegetables appetizing and attractive. Milk drinks and milk desserts may help children take the needed quart of milk a day. There is good

SCORES RESCUED FROM SEA AS GALE SWEEPS BAY STATE COAST

MANY STRANDED IN HARBOR ISLANDS

70-Mile Wind Capsizes Small Crafts; Coast Guard Have Record Day

A 70-mile gale accompanied by a heavy running sea menaced pleasure craft in Dorchester harbor and along the North and South shores, and resulted in the capsizing of several boats and the rescue of scores of persons by coastguardmen and volunteers from yacht clubs along the coast. It was estimated that fully 100 small pleasure craft were in danger in the harbor last night. The Island, Peddicks, Swan, Fox, and Moon Island, and other small islands and the other land spots in the outer harbor.

In Dorchester, the City Point coast guard station, a floating station of 11 men and three boats operating under Capt. Frank H. Brock, saved more than 25 persons in a series of rescues. All of the rescued persons were in cabin cruisers which, propelled by the wind, were drifting toward rocks or nearby islands.

Among those rescued were five persons in the 45-foot cabin cruiser "Phantom," owned by the Spring of the Monmouth Yacht Club of South Boston. The boat was seen drifting toward the rocks of Ward's Island, and towed to the yacht club.

ADRIAT IN GALE
Fourteen persons in the 40-foot cabin cruiser Lucy A., owned by Fred Abolin of 31 Lombard st., Dorchester.

Two persons in the 35-foot cabin cruiser Rubenard, owned by Miss Alice Clark of 38 1/2 Dorchester.

Two persons in the 30-foot cabin cruiser "Wendy," owned by the Columbia Yacht Club. Having nearly 1000 ft. of "wells" along various parts of the South Shore, the club's boat station at Point Allerton put in the harbor, day and night, in its history. Chief Boatman's mate, E. A. Joseph, skipper at the station, had the lives of four women and two men who were wrecked in a motorboat on Peddicks Island.

A party of five men, two women and two children had a narrow escape during the wind storm when the small cabin cruiser, 45-ft., owned by C. Rogers of North Weymouth sprang a leak while out in Hull bay and was beached on Peddicks Island. The craft was damaged by the rocks as she was beached.

Chief Boatman's mate G. A. Joseph, skipper at the Point Allerton coastguard station, said that the records showed that it was the busiest day for coast guards in many years.

Boatman's Mate D. M. Clark with the coast guard motorboat picked up a motorboat between George's Island and Long Island. The motorboat is owned by Patrick K. Kane and the latter was aboard with another man and two women. The motor was disabled and the women were in hysterics, one of them having fainted three times. The motorboat was towed to Orient Heights. On his way back Clark found a sleep yacht owned by Joseph L. Tates of 55 Pawley st., Quincy, in distress, with seven men aboard. The sleep was grounded on the rocks near George's Island and Clark pulled the vessel off and towed it to the Quincy Yacht Club.

Boatman's Mate D. M. Clark with the coast guard motorboat picked up a motorboat between George's Island and Long Island. The motorboat is owned by Patrick K. Kane and the latter was aboard with another man and two women. The motor was disabled and the women were in hysterics, one of them having fainted three times. The motorboat was towed to Orient Heights. On his way back Clark found a sleep yacht owned by Joseph L. Tates of 55 Pawley st., Quincy, in distress, with seven men aboard. The sleep was grounded on the rocks near George's Island and Clark pulled the vessel off and towed it to the Quincy Yacht Club.

Chief Boatman's mate G. A. Joseph, skipper at the Point Allerton coastguard station, said that the records showed that it was the busiest day for coast guards in many years.

REVIEW SEARCH AUTO CRASHES FOR ASSAILANT OF GIRL

Victim of Canton Junction Attack Suffers From Many Injuries

Police today are hunting for an unidentified assailant who attacked Miss Catherine Lane, 17, of Van Buren at Canton Junction, as she was passing through a lane near her home.

The girl is reported out of the danger at her home, where she is confined to bed.

Search of brush and swamp land near the girl's home revealed no trace of the assailant, who had jumped into a clump of bushes at the sound of footsteps of relatives of the girl who had been attracted by her screams.

Miss Lane bore evidence of her furious struggle to free herself from her captor. A severe cut behind the ear showed where she was struck by a pipe of iron pipe while her lips were puffed and a tooth broken in the front of her mouth where she had been struck.

Finger marks on her throat were evidence of an attempt by her assailant to shut off her cries for help.

Saturday night Miss Lane had gone to a motion picture show in Canton Junction. When she left the show it was raining. Her father, William H. Lane, a cabinet maker, was at the show with his wife, but did not know that his daughter was also there.

The girl's parents took a taxi home, passing the spot where their daughter was attacked a few minutes later.

Miss Lane told police that she was sure that she was not followed during the 10 minutes necessary to walk from the theater to corner of Neponset and Van Buren sts. in Canton Junction.

Van Buren st., on which the girl's home is located, is little more than a lane bordered with brush and low swamp land on either side.

In the narrow, unlighted path the girl turned and went about 50 yards when attacked.

When found the girl was in a pitiable condition from the rough handling by her attacker. Her dress was nearly ripped from her body and blood covered her head and mouth from the blows she had received.

Miss Lane was unable to give the police a description of her attacker, except to say that he was about 5 feet tall and of stocky build. He was dressed very poorly and wore a dark cap, which was pulled down over his eyes. He did not speak to the girl while struggling with her.

Parker Calls Week's Toll "Alarming"; 2 Die in Plane Crash

With 18 deaths from automobile accidents and two aviation fatalities for last week, George A. Parker, Registrar of Motor Vehicles, in his regular weekly statement, called attention again to the necessity for properly conditioned vehicles at all times.

The registrar described the number of automobile deaths as "alarmingly high." He likewise once more warned against the practice of trying to beat out a train at a crossing. Parker also pointed out that one boy had died from stealing a ride on the spare tire of a car.

"With the deaths this week equally divided between motorist and pedestrian, the total is alarmingly high, particularly when compared with the record of the corresponding week of last year. Among the pedestrians, the usual percentage of them were killed while crossing the railroad tracks across the street. According to the reports, several of these pedestrian fatalities could have been avoided if the brakes of the passenger cars and trucks involved had been kept in good working order. One unusual death, in this year of accidents, was that of a man who cranked his engine without first putting it in neutral. Another fatality proves once more the great danger of entrusting a child with a scooter wherever there is auto traffic.

"Among the accidents to occupants of autos I regret to record another railroad crossing tragedy, due it is reported, to the driver's attempt to beat all the cars to the crossing. Another motorcyclist died trying to take a dangerous curve in the road at top speed.

"With regard to the double auto fatalities which occurred this week in Greenfield, I wish to state that both the driver of the plane and the plane itself had been refused license and registration by the department.

EVENING AMERICAN SPORTS

Only Three Local Big League Games Carded This Week

SOX-SOLONS WEDNESDAY, THURSDAY, FRIDAY

By JOE CASHRMAN

THIS is the quietest week of the local baseball season. Both Sox and Red Sox will be locked this afternoon tomorrow afternoon and Friday afternoon.

The Red Sox will conclude their present home stay in a two-game series with the Washington Senators on Wednesday and Thursday.

The Braves will return from the trails on Saturday to meet a four game series with the league-leading Cubs.

THE Cardinals ended their second home stand against the West on the Sabbath with a victory over Chicago, which gave them a 2 to 1 edge over the Sox and their second series of the season.

It also gave them a record of five wins and seven defeats against the teams from distant parts and they can get an even break for the entire stay by clinching up the Solons.

The team as a whole showed little to make the fans enthusiastic, but the pitching, at times, was great.

Three of the native five victories were without a doubt, and four of them were due entirely to the effectiveness of the hurlers.

Charlie Ruffing, blundered in the Tigers with four hits. Jack Russell allowed the White Sox but five hits allowed in a game which was a mere nothing.

Girls to Play in Men's Net Tournay

The unique spectacle of women tennis players participating in a men's tennis singles tournament, unprecedented in the annals of American tennis, will be presented at Cambridge this week. Two women are to play in the annual Davis Cup singles tournament, which gets under way at Cambridge today. Miss Anna Kell, former holder of the women's championship of New Orleans, and Miss Corolla Randall of Cambridge, prominent in local tennis, are the two young women.

At yesterday, Big Ed Morley who in his few previous starts was hit by very hard, came through with the best performance any Sox hurler has given this year, whitewashing the Pale Horse with just two singles.

The Cardinals look at it as though they need a regiment of new players to get anywhere, but any club that has pitchers as class as Morley, Ruffing, Russell and MacFarland have been on recent occasions needed a lot of added strength to go place.

WASHINGTON, the most violent attraction, has been the biggest disappointment in either league this season.

In spring training, the Senators made the best record of any big league team. They beat all opposition, both major and minor, and won in something like 900 percentage in the grapefruit league.

Everybody was predicting a win and picking them as sure pennant contenders and possible world winners.

But they never have seen the first division.

The Athletics and Yanks ran over them at the end, and when they never recovered. Even the Sox have held them off, and when something they have not done to a club rival.

The lineup has first-division signs written all over it, but, for some reason or other, it cannot seem to click.

Law Goes to Mat Wrestlers

New York, Aug. 5.—An interesting bout is scheduled to take place at Dallas, Tex., at the tail end of a wrestling match Thursday night. Kid Kober of Dallas and Duke Trammell are the principals. The important part is that the bout is being staged as a test for the state anti-vice fight law, no admission being charged.

TRAINER SAYS BERTAZZOLO IN 8 ROUNDS

AFTER two weeks in the camp of Riccardo Bertazzolo, Tony Palazzone of New Orleans, trainer of Jack Sharkey, predicts that the hard punching Latin will make short work of Jimmy Maloney, when they clash at Braves Field, a week from tonight.

Palazzone was obtained to handle the fight Italian for this bout in an effort to give Bertazzolo the best conditioning possible.

According to the Italian's trainer, he is looking for a knockout in the first round within eight rounds. He expects Maloney to cause Bertazzolo some trouble in the early rounds, but he points out that the Italian's great strength and punching ability will wear down the local prize after the halfway mark has been passed.

Palazzone says that Bertazzolo is one of the hardest punchers he ever saw and he doesn't believe there is a heavyweight in the ring today who can stand up under one of his terrific rights.

The principals in this bout started on the final leg of their training week today.

200 Coaches at Northwestern

Boston, Ill., Aug. 5.—Two hundred coaches from universities and high schools in 31 states will gather today for the opening session of Northwestern University's annual summer coaching school.

Roundtable among the lecturers are Jess Hawley, former Dartmouth coach, and Fred Coach, coach of the University of Illinois. Hawley will deal with the "Warner" system, while Coach will discuss the Notre Dame style of football.

Lynn K. C. Nine One of Best in State

The Knights of Columbus League of Lynn, Mass., has been named one of the best in the State. This was shown by the Golden Rule team, winners of the Boston Twilight League and last year's champions. Lynn has another team in the circuit, has played a few New England senior teams and has beaten nearly all of them.

GOOD GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON. Golf's Greatest Teacher. Today is golf day. The can will flood the country today and tomorrow, but instead of playing a "gopher" class as most of the "golfers" do, they will be practicing on the practice green.

where, for many years, the practice green has been the only place where a golfer will be made if he has the principles we have been discussing. I have discussed some of the general things that have been the finest of golfers because I wish you to get these fundamentals firmly implanted in your mind at the very outset of your golf, since it is important to know how to play the game, if followed, will help your golf later on. Any player who has been at the game a few years and is still struggling with the "gopher" ball, you should have a fair view by now, but he is not putting down a ball for actual play will run your swing into it—the ball has that natural contrast both right into it. So go in the practice, the first, where you can begin in securing yourself to swinging with it and get the two working together.

"Teach Kids Golf," Says Horton Smith

By HORTON SMITH

U. S. North and South and French Professional Champion

THE remarkable golf played by my nine-year-old Lorene Dennis at Poplar Bluff, in my native Missouri, prompts me to suggest that, for the good of the game, children should be encouraged to take it up as soon as they are physically equipped to handle miniature clubs.

Of course, for some years many children have taken to golf but, considering its opportunities, comparatively few start at an early enough age.

As an exercise only, golf would undoubtedly be of great benefit to boys and girls from the age of five on. Early training in golf's stances and swings would build the physique and promote graceful carriage.

I AM sure that if one of our leading country clubs would plan and feature special golf classes and tournaments for children that most other clubs would soon follow suit. What a wealth of link talent would result in a few years!

Some clubs have been encouraging children to play, I realize, but most of them neglect, or ignore, the opportunity to have such a school and reservoir of golf talent.

My GOSH, BILL, THAT WAS THE FIRST TIME I EVER HEARD THAT OLD CROTCHER "UNCLE" WOULD DO YOU JACK ABOUT HIM THAT PANICKED HIM SO?

I DON'T KNOW ANYTHING, YET! GIVE ME TIME—I'LL THINK OF SOMETHING!

WELL, ER—MY DEAR MR. SMITH, PERHAPS I WAS A LITTLE HASTY. I DON'T KNOW MY BUST OF TEMPERAMENT! I ASSURE YOU IT WAS UNCALLED FOR! HAVE A PERFECT!

I TELL YOU, YOU CAN'T GO ON PRINTING ALL THAT STUFF ABOUT CANDIDATE HOODY—I WON'T STAND FOR IT!

LISTEN, YOU SANCTIONED OLD HYPOCRITE, WE'LL PRINT ANYTHING THAT'S THE TRUTH—AND THAT'S NO LIE!

WHO ARE YOU TO GET DICTATORIAL? I HAVE ENOUGH ON YOU TO TAKE YOU OUT OF CIRCULATION FOR TWENTY YEARS! IF YOU GET TOO OBNOXIOUS, I'LL PRINT EVERYTHING I KNOW ABOUT YOU AND GIVE THE PRESS AWAY—AND YOU WITH THEM!
